remove dir bash command

Remove / Delete directory called /tmp/foo

Open the terminal. Type the following command:

Recursive removal

Remove all files and directories (recursive removal):

Please note that you can also pass -p option to rmdir command. Each directory argument is treated as a pathname of which all components will be removed, if they are empty, starting with the last most component: